Faculty

Coastal Alabama Community College has adequate faculty resources to ensure the quality and integrity of its academic programs. Division Chairs work within their respective divisions to provide a workload rotation of face-to-face, hybrid, and Internet courses. Distance education courses and traditional face-to-face courses have the same semester credit hours and are counted equally when determining instructors' workloads. Coastal Alabama Community College evaluates the faculty teaching Distance Education courses and traditional courses based on the same evaluation procedures and criteria. Faculty who teach in distance and correspondence education programs and courses receive appropriate ongoing training on the LMS and affiliated technologies and instructional strategies.
