

Instructional Technology

Coastal Alabama Community College uses a learning management system. This system and other technologies utilized by the College provides flexibility to deliver instructional content and assessment for distance education courses.

All instructors teaching distance education courses are required to provide a Course Overview that includes course navigation and other technical information as required for the course. Instructors are required to provide contact information to students. Additionally, instructors have access to an electronic messaging system between the students and instructors. In the event that students cannot access their courses, they may contact the Technology Services Help Desk.

All Coastal Alabama Community College distance education courses must use the learning management system to record grades for all assignments in a timely manner for students to access.
